

Research Summary of Under Graduate Student of Hoque-Lab: Pujan Pokhrel

Pujan Pokhrel is an undergrad Computer Science student at UNO with a concentration in Machine Learning and Bioinformatics. His field of interest is the use of various machine learning techniques for practical applications. His current field of research is the use of neural networks for protein structure prediction.